

Bullish: uptrend

Hammer: bullish pattern after significant downtrend

Piercing Line: the bull candle opens lower than the bear's low, closes above bear's middle.

Bullish engulfing lines: strong bullish if after strong downtrend. Bigger than previous bear.

Morning star: indicates a possible reversal, confirmed by bullish candle

Bullish Doji: indicates a reversal, direction still unknown. Wait for next candle.

Bearish: downtrend

Long bearish candle: price opens near the high and closes near the low.

Hanging man: small candle bodies and long shadow. Can also be bullish

Dark Cloud Cover: more significant if second candle's body is below centre of first one.

Neutral trends

Copyright 2016 by Jan de Wit
<https://www.optionstradingpedia.com>

Spinning tops: neutral pattern. Distance between open close is small.

Doji: no trend. Open and close are the same.

Double doji: a big breakout will follow shortly

Harami: bearish candle is smaller than the bullish body. Bullish momentum has decreased.

Long-legged Doji: open and close are the same, big range between high and low – turning point coming.

Dragonfly Doji: open and close are the same, low significantly lower than open – turning point coming.

Gravestone Doji: open and close are the same, high significantly higher than open – turning point coming.

Stars: a reversal is indicated. The second candle is in the shadow of the first.